SENATOR PLUME TALKS ABOUT THE LIBRARY BUILDING PAY ROLL.

Senator Voorbeen Defends the Com mission-Mr. Heard Smites Mr. Bland and Then Spotls the Fun by an Apology-The Great Sloux Reservation,

In the Senate yesterday Mr. Hoar presented resolutions of the Massachusetts legislature relating to the ultimate ratification of treaties for the settlement of international questions by arbitration where they cannot be adjusted by diplomatic agencies. Referred to the committee on foreign rela-

Mr. Palmer offered a resolution (which was referred to the committee on the library) looking to the purchase of the Stanley collection of Indian historical paintings now in the custody of the Smithsonian Institution.

Mr. Beek gave notice that instead of replying at once to Mr. Sherman's speech of Tuesday (as he had intended) he would do on ext Tuesday.

Tuesday (as he had intended) he would do on next Tuesday.

On motion of Mr. Morrill, the Senate took from the calendar and passed the Senate till to authorize the acquisition of certain parcels of real estate in square 400, Washirgton city, for the enlargement of the Postofice Department building, and to provide accummodations for the city postofice.

Mr. Saulebury inquired whether the bill contained authority for the procuring of another site in case the one designated could not be got at reasonable terms.

Mr. Morrill replied in the negative, adding that the enlargement of the Postoffine Department building could only be made in the direction indicated, and that it was believed that this site could be procured on reasonable terms.

An exhibit attached to the bill shows that the aggregate of the prices demanded by the owners of the property is $535,500. On motion of Mr. Berry the House joint resolution to enable the Secretary of the Interior to utilize the hot water now running to waste on the Hot Springs reservation, Ark., was taken up and passed, Mr. Jones, of Arkansas, stating that he withdraw the substitute offered by him yesterday and that he would introduce it as an i.dspendent measure.

On motion of Mr. Beck the Senate bill to credit the late collectors of the port of New York, Robertson and Hedden (the former $2,346 and the latter $3,073), for moneps received by a dishonest clerk as duties on books was taken up and passed.

The Senate then resumed consideration of the urgency deficiency bill, the question being on striking out the provision inserted by the House requiring the public printer to enforce rigidly the eight hour law. The item was struck out—yeas 32, nays 20, as follows:

NAYS—Blair, Bowen, Chandler, Cullom, Davis, Dolph, Frye, Hoar, Jones of Nev., Manderson, Mitchell, Palmer, Piatt, Plumb, Sherman, Spooner, Stewart, Stockbridge, Teller, Turple—20.

An additional section was inserted in the fill, on motion of Mr. Hale, containing a large number of items, generally small in amount, allowed by the accounting officers of the treasury, or by judgments of the court of claims since the dates covered in the bill as it came from the House. By the amendment the total appropriation for judgments of the court of claims is increased from $203,000 to $455,000.

Mr. Payne offered an amendment appropriating $60,000 for the pay of assistant custodians and janitors of public building all over the country for the current fiscal year.

Mr. Hale opposed the amendment on the ground that the last Congress in making an appropriation for the purpose, had distinctly notified the Secretary of the Tressury that he must so apportion the sum as to prevent any deficiency. He believed that the sum was not only ample but more than necessary.

Mr. Gorman advocated the amendment

Mr. Faulkner replied to allegations made by Mr. Flumb and Mr. Dawes on the 10th Mr. Faulkiner replied to allegations made by Mr. Plumb and Mr. Dawes on the 10th of February last in regard to extravagance in public buildings. He reminded those senators that their arraignments belonged properly to administrations of which they were supporters, not to the present admin-istration. He read a letter suggesting an enlargement of the public building at Wiebita, Kaneas, and suggesting a suspeu-sion of work until such enlargement was authorized; and said that hat letter to the supervising architect of the treasury was signed by the senator who had joined in the signed by the senator who had joined in the censorious raid on the architect of the tressury, and that it was under that advice and suggestion that the delay in the con-struction of that public building had oc-

Mr. Fathkner replied that his custom was not teleplophogout things which fild not exist, and and if the senator from Kausas confined hymself to the same rule he (Mr. Faulkner) would not have any reason for criticising him. He thought that in view of that letter the senator from Kausas (in the raid upon the architect of the treasury) should have been found running with the hare, not with the bound. In telling part of the story about the Wichita building it would have been becoming in the senator to tell it all.

would have been becoming in the senator to tell It all.

Mr. Dawes stated that his remarks on the occasion referred to had been made by him so often that he thought they would have been recognized "as that old story of mine."

There are so many stories told on the other side of the chamber (Mr. Faulkner retorted) that it would take a gentleman of much larger head than I possess to retain memory of them all.

The senator, said Mr. Dawes, ought to have some compassion on me, for I have been lashed a good deal in the past for my criticism of the party to which I belong.

This is the first time that I have ever been accused of blinking at anything that was ever done by the party to which I belong when my attention was called to it.

Mr. Faulkner proceeded with his statement, referring principally to the public building at Wichita; and asked whether it was just and right that the supervising was just and right that he supervising srchitect of the treasury should be held up to public censure and opprobrium because he had yielded to the suggestions of representatives from the state of Kansas in both buses.

that all the public building deficiencies, which had been so much deprecated, had arisen, not from any contracts made by the present architect of the treasury, but from contracts made by his predecessor.

Mr. Plumb reiterated everything contained in his letter to the supervising architect, and which he supposed had been obtained through a subpona duces tecum. His remarks on the occasion referred to had been directed principally to the library building in Washington: and he was not going now to be diverted from that subject. He proceeded to read from a list of expenditures in connection with that building—the first being $2,772 for watchmen—a larger sum than that spent for watchmen for the pension building, which had been five years in course of construction—and that for a building of which the basement plan were not yet drawn.

"That is not true," said Mr. Voorhees, rising.

"He is true," Mr. Plumb rejoined.
"I state it is not true," repeated Mr.

"I am informed," said Mr. Plumb, "that there is an advertisement in one of the city papers stating that the specifications for the basement of that building are not complete, and will not be till to-morrow."
"There is no such statement or advertisement in any city paper," Mr. Voorhees asserted.

tures for the library building Mr. Plamb mentioned "a messenger at $600 a month." "Six buodred dollars a mouth for a mes-senger!" quested Mr. Voorbees. "I said $60.," replied Mr. Plamb. "No; you said $600," Mr. Voorbees in-sisted.

"No; rou said $600," Mr. Voorhees insisted.
"Well, I wonder it was not $600 a month," said Mr. Plumb.
"And I wonder that you did not call it
$6.000," was Mr. Voorhees's rejoinder.
Continuing to read the list of expenditures Mr. Plumb mentioned "a disbursing agent at $2,500." and a man to help him with a commission of $1 of 1 per cent, on the amounts paid.

Mr. Hale. What has the disbursing agent to disburse?

Mr. Plumb. If the senator had looked over these figures be would have found that the disbursing agent has had the most work of all. He has disbursed $99,000 during the past year, and that is all the work that has been done there. In proportion to other employees the disbursing agent should have at least $10,000. Continuing the read from the list of expenditures Mr. Plumb mentioned the items of $5,000 a year for the architect, $3,000 "for a fellow to help him," $125 a month for an expert in fron construction, while (he said) "all the iron work over there is not only in the imagination, but in the bowels of the earth." The library building up to date consisted (he said) of "a hole in the ground." He would not work the deposit out now, but would reserve some of it for future occasions. He notified Mr. Voorhees that he had now in his hands the paper containing the advertisement which he had referred to, and that the advertisement said that the basement specifications could be seen to morrow.

Mr. Voorhees suggested that the advertisement did not say that the specifications were not prepared.

Mr. Plumb. "No; but still that is significant."

Mr. Voorhees. "Everything is significant amounte paid.

Mr. Plumb. "No; but still that is significant."

Mr. Voorhees. "Everything is significant to the senator from Kansas."

Mr. Voorhees referred to the high character of the men composing the library commission; namely, the Secretary of the Interior, Mr. Spofford, the librarian, and Mr. Clarke, the Capitol architect. These three men might safely, he thought, be entrusted with the expenditure of public money. They were men of high character, and had, under the law, absolute control of the whole subject. If there had been any malfestance it would be a most amazing thing to him, for these were the most trusted men that he knew. As politics had been mentioned he would say that two of the three commissioners, Mr. Spofford and Mr. Clarke, were toward, not be respected them as such, for he wanted no neutral that in anybody's politics.

At the close of the discussion the vote was taken on Mr. Payne's amendment, and it was not sgreed to—yeas 24, nays 24.

The bill having been reported by the committee of the whole, Mr. Payne renewed his amendment in the Senate and it was again rejected—yeas 25, nays 39.

On motion of Mr. Paddock the pension bill went over till to-day, with the upustanding that after the meal ing business—would be taken up and di. e. seed under the five minute rule and the fine-vivote taken before adjournment. fore adjournment.
The Senate then proceeded to executive business, and at 4:25 adjourned.

House went into committee of the whole (Mr. McMillin, of Tennessee, in the chair) on public measures.

In discussing a bill for the erection of a public building at Sedalla, Mo., at an ultimate cost of $50,000, Mr. Bland, of Missouri, took cossion to inveigh against the protective tariff and against the extravagent system which the House had inaugurated in the nassing of bills for the erection of public buildings. He sent to the clerk's desk and had read a newspaper article, in which the statement is made that the west does not own the west, but that under the protective tariff the money-lending states of the east have come to own the west. Statistics were given to show the amount of mortsages held by eastern capitalists upon western farms; the correctness of which statistics was earnestly decied by Mr. Cannon, of Illinois, and Mr. Gear, of Iowa.

Mr. Heard, of Missouri, regretted that his colleague had seen fit upon the pending bill to rehash, revamp, duplicate, and quadruplicate the speeches upon the tariff which he had made out of time and out of place, and which no young man in his (Heard's) district who aspired to be a prosecuting attorney could not exeel. [Laughter].

He (Heard) believed in reforming the tariff, and he believed in the sanctity of the Christian religion, but he did not believe that this was the time for discussing either topic. He wanted the members of the House and the people of Missouri to appreciate the reason which had impelled his colleague to take a position against the pending bill. There was a little personal preciate the reason which had impelled his colleague to take a position against the pending bill. There was a little personal and geographical history attached to it. In the corner of his colleague's district was Jefferson City, where, unfortunately for the state, the capital had been located by the organic act. [Laughter]. He did not mean to detract from the peo-plet there, who were among the best people petitor for the congressional nomination lived in that town [Therefore, bis dear Irlend proposed to make himself solid with Jefferson City by opposing Sedalia. [Laughter.]

Mr. Bland said that he had indulged in no personalities, and when the gentieman indulged in them toward him he did it unwarrantaliv, and his language was uncalled for. He (Mr. Bland) has opposed all these public building measures, and because this building was located in Missouri was no reason why he should favor it. If, as the gentleman said, the e were young men in his district who could make better tariff speeches that he (Mr. Bland) could it was time it was sending one of them to Congress. [Laughter.]

The bill was then agreed to, reported to the House, and passed.

The morning hour having expired, Mr. Heard stated that in the heat of debate he had made some remarks which perhaps refected on his friend and colleague in a personal way. That being the case he destred to withdraw anything which might have been offensive to his colleague and calculated to put him in an unfair light.

The House again went into committee of the whole (Mr. McMillin, of Tennessee, in the chair) for the consideration of business called up by the cummittee on Indian affairs.

The first bill agreed to was one ratifying and confirming an agreement with the Gresswatte, Piegan, Blackfeet, and River Crow Indians in Montana.

The next bill considered was that to divide the great Sloux reservation into separate smaller reservations.

Some discussion arose over the provision granting the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad Company and the Dakota Central Railroad Company and the Dakota Central Railroad Company the right of way through the reservation, and on motion of Mr. Holman, of Indiana, an amendment was adopted providing that unless the roads shall be constructed within three years, all the lands granted for station purposes and the right of way shall be forfeited and revert to the government.

The bill was then agreed to.

The committee rose and both bills were

The best medical writers claim that the successful remedy for masal catarrh must be non-irritating, easy of application, and one that will by its own action reach all the remote sores and ulcerated surfaces. The history of the efforts to treat catarrh during the past few years obliges us to admit that only one remedy has completely met these conditions, and that is Ely's Cream Balm. This safe and pleasant remedy has mastered catarrh as nothing else has ever done, and both physicians and patients freely concede this fact. The most distressing symptoms quickly yield to it.

the face, is one of those whom the skilled physician will tell you will some day dread the funereal month of March, because it is then that consumption reaps its richest harvest. Consumption thay tell us, is caused by this, that, and the other thing, by microbes in the air, by micro-organisms in the blood, by deficient nutrition, by a thousand and one things, but whatever the cause, decay begins with a cough, and the remedy that will effectually stop the cause of that cough cures the disease of the lungs. That is all there is of it.

The cough is an evidence of a wasting. To stop it effectually a remedy must be used that will search out the cause, remove that, and then heal the lung and do away with the cough. This is the power, special to itself, possessed alone by Warner's Log Cabin Cough and Consumption Remedy. This is no new-targled notion of narcotics and poisons, but an old-fashioned preparation of balsams, roots, and herbs, such as was used by our ancestors many years ago, the formula of which has been secured exclusively by the present manufacturers at great trouble and expense. It is not a mere cold dryer. It is a system-searcher and upbuilder and a consumption excellant. Where others fall, it wirs, because it gets at the constitutional cause and removes it from the system.

J. W. Hensaw, of Greensboro, Pa., on January 15, 1888, reported that "he had derived more real benefit for the length of time, from Warner's Log Cabin Cough and Consumption remedy than he had for years from the best state physicians."

If you have a cough, night sweats, "positive assurance in your own mind that you, oh—you, have no consumption," and yet lose flesh, appetite, courage, as your lungs waste away, you may know that soon the funeral month of March will claim you, unless promptly and faithfully you use the article named. New York, Mar, 7.—The stock market was senin more active to-day, though the improvesgain more active to-day, though the improvement in the amount of business done was spasmodic and irregular, and while the list was strong in the forendon it gave way later, and closed at lower figures reached. London houses were most prominent in the selling during the forendon, the movement being based on unfavorable rejects in regard to the Emperor and Crown Prince of Germany, which created increased uncasiness in the European bourses. That interest was also conspicuous later when more definite news of an unfavorable turn in the condition of the emperor was received. The shorts were inclined to ever during the early portion of the day, and materially aided the rise at that time, but the above-mentioned news with the action of the Brothernood and a rumored strike on the Chicago, Eurlington and Northern precipitated a flood of short stocks as well as induced some long selling.

How a Dying Child Was Saved!

Cicero, Hambron Co., Ind., Sept., 19, 1957.— The following is a true account of what your S. S. S. has done for our little daughter, Hazel, now four years old. When 12 months old a lamp appeared on her heel, which slowly graw larger. The family physician thought it was caused by a piece of broken glass or needle, but failed to bring anything to light. The child became feebler all the time, seeming to lose the use of her leg, and finally quit walk-ing entirely. The middle finger and thumb of either hand became enlarged, the flesh be-coming hard. The hip joints became lavolv-ed, so that when seventeen months old she could not stand, having lost the use of leg and arm. Partial curvature of the spine also andarm. Partial curvature of the spine also followed. The nervous system was wrecked, muscles contracted, and there was general wasting of flesh and muscle. At eighteen months of age sue was placed under the treatment of a premient physician of flesh on, Mass., but at the end of ten months she had declined to such a degree that she was in a drying could for. a dying condition. This was in April, 1885 We took the child away not knowing what we took the child away not knowing what to do. In this dreadful dilemma we were over-persuaded by friends to try "one bottle" of Swipt's Specific, which we did, and before it had all been taken we saw a change for the better in her symptoms. We kept it up, and have done so to this day, and will keep it up, if the Lord wills, for many days focome, for it has brought our digs. Harel forcome, for it has brought our digs. to come, for it has brought our dying Hazel to life, to vigor, to strength and health again. The ashen bue of her cheeks has changed to a rosy tint. She is able to walk anywhere her languor and melancholy have passed way, and sho is now a blithe, cheerful, hap-py romping child. Should you wish to lu-crease your testimonials of proof of the whene of S.S.S., our names and what we is but a port
